Accreditation Overview

The purpose of law enforcement agency accreditation is to professionalize the law enforcement industry by providing a review process for agencies to be certified as operating under industry best practices and standards. In 1976 the Association was directed by the Washington State Legislature to develop standards and goals for Washington State Law Enforcement. The Association has maintained an operational accreditation program since that time.

The current accreditation program was updated in 2007 and is continually updated as needed. The program is overseen by the WASPC Professional Services Committee, Accreditation Commission, and Board of Directors. The membership wanted the program to reflect the highest professional standards of policing yet be financially accessible to any member agency that desired to earn it. The main differences between previous WASPC accreditation programs and the current program are:

1. All standards are "have-to practices" as determined by law or a universal practice within the profession;
2. The number of standards is less than 150 but all are mandatory for every agency; and,
3. The dominant verification method by the on-site assessors includes the examination of written documents, observations and interviews with the agency employees. Assessors review agency files for policies and procedures as well as documentation showing the agency is operating under the direction of those policies and procedures. Assessors will also interview agency members to gather additional information.

The Accreditation Committee is responsible for maintaining accreditation standards, directing assigned WASPC staff and oversight of the program. The Accreditation Commission is responsible for reviewing accreditation on-site reports and making recommendations to the Board of Directors on whether an agency should receive WASPC Accreditation. The Board of Directors is responsible for conferring accreditation.

Benefits of Accreditation Include

- To increase public confidence in the agency;
- To increase credibility;
- To provide systemized agency self-assessment;
- To broaden perspectives;
- To intensify administrative and operational effectiveness;
- To ensure recruitment, selection, and promotion processes are fair and equitable;
- To strengthen understanding of agency policies and procedures by agency personnel;
- To improve agency morale and pride;
- To decrease susceptibility to litigation and costly civil court settlements;

- To potentially reduce liability insurance costs;
- To provide state and local recognition of professional competence.

Overview of Accreditation Process

The Accreditation process occurs in eight phases: Interest and Contract; File Maintenance; Self-Assessment; On-Site Assessment and Evaluation; Accreditation Commission Review; Executive Board Review; Award; and Re-Accreditation.

In the interest and contract phase, agencies work with the Association's Director of Professional Services to develop guidelines for the accreditation process. There are two types of fees associated with the WASPC Accreditation program, application fees and on-site costs. The application fee for all agencies is $100 and is submitted, along with a signed contract, following the agency successfully completing a mock assessment. On-site assessment fees are related to the accreditation inspection process once assessors arrive at an agency and are invoiced after the on-site assessment and vary by department and availability of assessors. Agencies seeking Accreditation agree to pay the travel costs associated with bringing in assessors from around the state and the WASPC employees staff time needed to facilitate agency accreditation. Every effort is made to utilize assessors that are located close to the requesting agency to help minimize these costs.

Once a contract is signed with WASPC by agencies seeking initial accreditation they will have one year to complete their onsite assessment. Agencies are strongly encouraged to work closely with their mentor and the Director of Professional Services to ensure proper timing of the accreditation contract. Agencies not being able to successfully complete their onsite within one year must re-apply, submit the $100 application fee and will be subject to any changes to the WASPC accreditation standards in effect at the time of re-application.

All current WASPC accredited agencies are subject to re-accreditation every four years. Agencies will be notified of their upcoming re-accreditation by the Director of Professional Services in the fall prior to the re-accreditation year. Agencies will have from January 1 to October 1 of the re-accrediting year to successfully complete a re-accreditation onsite. Agencies are strongly discouraged from waiting until August or September to re-accredit. Extensions for re-accrediting agencies beyond October 1 will not be considered.

Those agencies not re-accrediting by October 1 are suspended the following year and must re-apply as a new accrediting agency the second year. During the onsite the agency must supply contemporary proofs for each standard that occurred within the past two calendar years and must also provide annual proofs from, at least, the past year. Re-accrediting agencies are subject to the WASPC accreditation standards in effect at the time of successful completion of the mock assessment.

In the self-assessment phase, agencies assess their ability to meet all WASPC Accreditation standards addressing major law enforcement areas as established by the association's Professional Services Committee. Major areas include emphasis on:

- Goals and Objectives
- Role and Authority
- Use of Force
- Management, Staffing, Organization and Utilization of Personnel
- Records Management
- Information Technology
- Unusual Occurrences
- Health and Safety
- Fiscal Management
- Recruitment and Selection
- Training
- Performance Evaluation
- Code of Conduct
- Internal Affairs
- Patrol Function
- Investigative Function
- Evidence and Property Control Function
- Prisoner Security

During the file maintenance and self-assessment phases, agencies gather proof of their ability to meet the standards and proof of the agency's institutionalization of the standards. Agencies are assigned a mentor during this phase who assists them with many aspects of the accreditation process.

During the on-site assessment and evaluation phase, the on-site assessment team, a group of volunteer assessors from law enforcement agencies across Washington State, evaluate the agency's ability to meet the WASPC accreditation standards. The assessors review agency files for policies and procedures as well as documentation (proofs) showing the agency is operating under the direction of those policies and procedures. Assessors also interview agency members to gather additional information. As part of the WASPC on-site process, assessors are encouraged to recommend where improvement can be made.

Results of the onsite and suggestions for improvement are compiled in the final on-site report. Non-compliance issues must be reconciled to the satisfaction of the Director of Professional Services before the agency's presentation to the Accreditation Commission. All non-compliance issues must be resolved at least 30 days prior to the Commission meeting.

In the Accreditation Commission review phase, the WASPC Director of Professional Services, the chief administrator of the agency seeking accreditation, and the departmental accreditation manager appear before the Accreditation Commission for determination if they have met all WASPC standards. When evaluating an agency's suitability for accreditation or re-accreditation the findings of the Accreditation Commission is final.

In the Executive Board review phase, the WASPC Executive Board reviews the findings of the Accreditation Commission and confirms a final decision.

In the Award phase of the accreditation process, the agency is presented with a plaque for successfully achieving the professional standards as outlined in the Washington Association of Sheriffs & Police Chiefs Law Enforcement Accreditation Program. Presentation of accreditation plaques occur at the Association's semi-annual training conferences.

During the reaccreditation phase, agencies repeat the entire process. The reaccreditation process is significantly less cumbersome if agencies institutionalize the accreditation philosophy and keep agency policies, procedures and records up to date. To maintain accreditation, agencies must be reaccredited every four years. For additional information on the reaccreditation process refer to Accreditation Committee Responsibilities and Procedures #9 on page 13.

The Association also acknowledges CALEA accredited agencies who have met all WASPC accreditation standards and awards recognition to those agencies that successfully prove compliance. CALEA agencies seeking WASPC affiliate status must comply with all WASPC standards including those that have annual requirements. CALEA affiliate agencies must successfully complete an onsite assessment of outstanding WASPC standards before the next WASPC semi-annual conference following the date that they receive CALEA accreditation/reaccreditation. Agencies moving to WASPC accreditation, and away from CALEA, are treated as a new accrediting agency and must successfully complete an onsite assessment covering all WASPC standards. All CALEA agencies, regardless of the status they are seeking, must work closely with the Director of Professional services as they navigate the differences between CALEA and WASPC accreditation.

Chief Executive Considerations for Accreditation Success

1. Commitment is everything. You must be totally committed to the effort and the outcome because, like everything that has meaning, the accreditation process is not easy and it will take hard work by a number of people. Every agency has a pace to achieve accreditation and the time it takes for an agency to become accredited is different from agency to agency. One agency that "lived accreditation" may complete the accreditation program in 45 days, while another agency may take several months or years, especially if infrastructure changes are needed.
2. Download the WASPC Standards from the WASPC website. The accreditation standards are updated annually with a new edition published on July 1st each year.

Standards are updated by the Professional Services Committee and approved by the Executive Board, after membership discussion, to reflect the evolution of the profession and to keep the program current. The agency is held to the version of the standards in effect at the time the accreditation contract is signed with WASPC.

3. Scan the standards for your own familiarity and to get a snapshot of the expectations. It is very likely that you are already doing the vast majority of standards but reviewing the standards will provide a foundation for your questions and give you a good impression of the areas that need addressing.
4. Plant seeds. Plant the idea of accreditation with the key leadership and opinion-makers within the agency. This will likely prevent surprise and initial resistance.
5. Keep the elected officials informed and solicit their commitment. Accreditation is often widely accepted, if not popular, with elected officials because it is easy for them to comprehend. Meeting highest industry standards makes sense to elected officials and the public.
6. Contact WASPC. Notify the Director of Professional Services you want to pursue accreditation. The Director will advise you of the resources that are available to you and will assign your agency an accreditation mentor (see below). Once you have completed mock assessment sign a contract with WASPC and your commitment becomes formalized. The date on which you sign your contract will determine which edition of the standards you will be assessed on.
7. Mentoring. Nearly all of the currently accredited agencies will provide assistance to help you in your process. There is no need to pursue agency accreditation alone and working with a mentor is required and makes the process much easier. The WASPC Director of Professional Services will work with you to assign a mentor. A current mentor list is available on the WASPC website.
8. Identify an Accreditation Manager. This is the point person for your agency's accreditation effort. Successful Accreditation Managers: (1) Know the agency well; (2) Have a track history of getting projects done that meet your expectations; (3) Are team leaders who can delegate, motivate others, create teams, and get tasks done; (4) Are willing to learn, ask questions, and find resources; and (5) Are committed to seeing the process through to completion. The surest way to stall your accreditation effort is to change managers during the process. Some agencies have used their "up and coming" leaders as Accreditation Managers. Who you pick as the Accreditation Manager will set the tone for success. History has shown that selecting the "right person" for the job is better than using someone temporarily on light duty or assisting someone who has no interest in accreditation.

9. Train the Accreditation Manager. Training for Accreditation Managers is offered by WASPC during the year. The next level of training for the Accreditation Manager is to work as an accreditation on-site assessor for WASPC. Just having an Accreditation Manager witness an on-site assessment is an excellent training experience. The WASPC Director of Professional Services can assist you with this opportunity.
10. Present the accreditation program to your command and supervisory staff, and then include the union leadership and all agency staff. Successful accreditation processes include all the components of the agency through the process of information sharing and delegating standards out to employees. Though it may seem easier to have the accreditation process be “top down” and completely done by the Accreditation Manager, the result fails to lift up the whole agency and the process becomes only an event, rather than a way of doing business.
11. Policy Modification Authority. The Accreditation Manager you select will recommend changes to department policy and/or practice in order to institutionalize Accreditation into your agency. Streamline the process by which policy can be modified to meet the standards and train your personnel to the new standards. If the process for modification of policy and/or practice is too complex, the accreditation process may bog down and stall.

Accreditation Managers Considerations for Success

1. Assess where the gaps are. This is determining where the agency’s practices and policies may need work. Though it can be done by the Accreditation Manager it is often done more successfully and quickly by a small group of supervisors or field training officers. The gap assessment becomes the central task list of attaining accreditation.
2. Consult with a Mentor through the WASPC Mentorship Program. Establish a relationship with a mentor through the WASPC Mentorship Program. Mentors are selected by the Director of Professional Services, possess strong coaching skills and work in agencies that have successfully completed the Accreditation process. Mentors provide great insight into what is expected, to include file preparation and the actual Accreditation process.
3. Start a tracking system. Successful accreditation managers create an excellent tracking system to keep track of the standards that are done, ones that are in progress and who is working on them.
4. Research policy and practice to meet the standard. Though it is very likely that most of the standards will not need any work on your part because you are already doing them. When you find a “gap” that needs to be filled, find the best policy or practice to close the gap. Borrow and modify policies from other accredited agencies. Do not “reinvent the wheel”.

5. Implement. New written policy needs to be reviewed, approved and trained on. This may take longer than you think. Some agencies use a quiz format to make sure the transfer of learning, from the policy book to the employee, actually happened. Document any policy training that occurs. This makes for an excellent proof for your file.
6. Focus on performance to meet the standards. This means that the on-site assessors will verify compliance of many standards by reviewing the proofs in the file, as well as interviewing the staff and taking agency tours of your facilities. Therefore, employees will need to know your policies and practices. This is why training of staff is vital.
7. Create a standardized system of file construction. All standards will need files for the on-site assessors to review. Experienced accreditation managers create a standardized way of constructing the files that are easy for the assessors to use. Most managers create actual file folders for each standard to hold necessary documents. Other agencies use an electronic format that is approved for WASPC accreditation purposes. If you elect to use an electronic file format you must seek prior approval from the Director of Professional Services.
8. Keep accreditation on the front burner. Do this by imposing short time lines for tasks and having many people involved in the work. Keep accreditation on the agenda for all staff and team meetings. Consider using a large bulletin board that is accessible to all employees to show the progress of the effort. Plan for distractions while not losing momentum on accreditation.
9. Do in-house assessments. Take a team of supervisors and go through all the standards, interviewing employees, observing practices and looking at files to determine if all the standards are met.
10. Participate in another agency's mock or actual on-site assessment. One of the best ways to learn what to expect is to experience an onsite as an observer. Coordinate with the WASPC Director of Professional Services to observe an onsite assessment.
11. Conduct a Mock Assessment. All agencies seeking WASPC accreditation must experience a mock on-site assessment prior to their onsite assessment. Mock assessment is one of the most important steps in the accreditation/re-accreditation process and is normally facilitated by your agency's accreditation mentor. The Director of Professional services will assist in identifying accreditation assessors willing to assist with a mock on-site. The value of the mock assessment is to find the “blind spots” that are often overlooked and to provide you with an opportunity to fix issues that may be identified prior to your on-site. An accreditation agreement, between WASPC and the accrediting agency, is signed once the mock assessment has been successfully completed.

What to Expect in the On-site Assessment Process

1. Schedule the date with WASPC. The dates are mutually agreed upon between you and WASPC. Give yourself enough time to be successful, but short enough time that it stays a priority. Typically, on-site assessments take one day.
2. In the unlikely event the Director of Professional Services is not available to facilitate the onsite they will assign a team leader. The team leader will be looking for opportunities to find compliance with the standard without affecting the standard's integrity.
3. Parking for Assessors. Some agencies have very limited general parking opportunities and agencies may find it beneficial to reserve parking for assessors.
4. Provide general information to each assessor. Folders containing maps, photos of command staff, telephone numbers, locations of offices and restrooms is helpful. Also, copies of the department's policy manual, Comprehensive Emergency Management Plan and other documents from which proof are taken should be available for assessor review on a nearby resource table.
5. Designate a conference room for the assessors. A space that can comfortably handle up to 6-8 people with lap top computers, surfaces to spread out files, a white board and light snacks are appropriate.
6. Provide name tags and access methods for the building and the security perimeter.
7. Refreshments and Lunch. It is the agencies responsibility to provide morning refreshments and lunch to the assessors. Lunch should be brought in to allow the onsite team to work through the day.
8. Start the on-site assessment with introductions of key staff members and a tour of the facility. A greeting by the elected official or top administrator is sometimes appropriate and is at the discretion of the Chief or Sheriff. This answers a lot of questions and gets the assessment off to a good start.
9. Have enough staff on hand to answer questions without impacting the services to the public. Avoid having the assessors wait for long periods of time for staff members to be available. Some assessors may want to do a short (1 hour or so) ride along with patrol personnel to interview them and to watch them at work.

10. The team leader will keep you informed. One of the key roles of the WASPC Director of Professional Services or team leader is to keep the agency executive informed of the progress of the assessment.
11. Closing out the Assessment. The team leader and the assessors will provide the agency executive and any other invited agency employees with a summary of their findings. This is a great time to hear everything that the assessors found. Remember, the assessors only provide a report with recommendations to the Accreditation Commission about compliance with WASPC Accreditation.
12. Final Report. The Director of Professional Services will compile the assessment team's final report and this will be sent to you before the Accreditation Commission meets. Review the report carefully and communicate any concerns or questions to the WASPC Director of Professional Services.
13. The Accreditation Commission. The Accreditation Commission will meet to at the spring and fall WASPC conference to consider awarding WASPC accreditation to the agency. The Commission may hear from the WASPC Director of Professional Services and the agency executive is encouraged to be part of the process. They may choose to speak or make an appeal about any of the assessment team's findings. If the Commission agrees with the findings of the report, the recommendation for accredited status will be forwarded to the WASPC Executive Board for final action.
14. WASPC Conference for the Award. The award is given at the conference banquet. It is appropriate that the Chief Executive and the Accreditation Manager receive the award on behalf of the agency. Many agencies will bring a contingent to the banquet and fill a table of eight. Accreditation remains in effect for four years.
15. Celebrate. Consider presenting the award plaque to your elected officials or citizens at a public meeting with the media present. The local print media are usually very good at covering these events. Consider having a reception with the agency's team and honor the Accreditation Manager for his or her work. Take the accreditation plaque on the road as a topic to speak to service organizations and neighborhood groups. Put the plaque in a prominent place for the public to see. You may want to display "State Accredited Agency" on your letterhead, business cards and/or patrol vehicles.
16. Be a Partner and Mentor. Use your lessons and experiences to help your neighboring agencies, continue to live the accreditation standards, and participate on assessment teams as the program continues to grow.

Accreditation Commission Responsibilities and Procedures

The Accreditation Commission meets during the WASPC Spring and Fall Conferences to review accreditation reports submitted by the Director of Professional Services. During the Commission meeting, the Director of Professional Services present the onsite reports and summarizes the results of all onsite assessments that have been conducted since the last conference.

The Commission is comprised of two Police Chiefs from accredited agencies; two Sheriffs from accredited agencies; three accreditation Managers from accredited agencies and two jail Managers. The WASPC Executive Board makes appointments to the Accreditation Commission. Terms are for three years and are on staggered expirations so as to provide process consistency and to ensure experience on the Commission. A list of current Commission members is available on the WASPC website. The chairperson of the Commission is selected from the Commission Members and serves in that capacity for one year. The WASPC Director of Professional Services provides staff support for the Commission.

The Commission is not a file assessment entity, and as such, will not review files for compliance of standards. The Commission reviews the reports of the Assessment Team to determine that they have followed the process and completed the necessary reports and answered any unresolved issues or findings.

In the event that there is a dispute between the Assessment Team and the Agency seeking accreditation that cannot be resolved through the Director of Professional Services, the Commission will hear appeals concerning compliance/non-compliance with the standards set forth in the WASPC Standards Manual.

Once the process has been verified and any appeals resolved, the Commission makes recommendation to the WASPC Executive Board to convey Accreditation Status upon the requesting agency.

Professional Services Committee Responsibilities and Procedures

The Professional Services Committee meets during the WASPC Conferences but may also meet periodically during the year to review standards, provide training or to review assessment schedules and procedures. To ensure that the Accreditation Program remains a viable gauge of professional standards, the Committee reviews and recommends updates to standards to the Executive Board.

The Committee philosophy is:

1. Accreditation is a voluntary program.

2. Accreditation is intended to be the minimum professional standards for Washington State law enforcement agencies.
3. Accreditation should be accessible and affordable to any Washington State law enforcement agency.
4. All standards are mandatory and apply to all agencies. Every part of the standard must be met, just like the elements of a crime when reading a statute. Some standards have multiple parts or bullets – each must be proofed.
5. The origins of the mandatory standards are: Requirements by state or federal law, universal recommendations of practice by the WASPC Loaned Executive Management Assistance Program (LEMAP), universal standards from other state accreditation programs, or as proposed by the WASPC membership. The threshold to become a mandatory standard is the “necessity of practice by every agency” or “universal have-to.” Standards are reviewed and adopted using a formal and accessible process during the Professional Services Committee meetings. Standards may also be derived from WASPC Model Policies which are recommended from the WASPC Model Policies Committee to the Executive Board.
6. The standards are not intended to dictate what practice, policy or guideline that an agency should do or have; only that the agency’s product is reasonable, appropriate and defensible as it meets the standard’s requirements.
7. Purpose statements in standards are intended for guidance and clarification only; they are not required, but agencies should expect the standards’ requirements to be interpreted according to the listed purpose.
8. Absent unusual circumstances, new and updated standards are published on July 1st of each year. An agency that is undergoing accreditation or re-accreditation, and is under contract, is responsible for the standards in effect on the date that the agency successfully completed their mock assessment.
9. During the initial agency on-site, proofs from the most current year will be inspected for compliance. Agencies seeking reaccreditation will be expected to provide proof of compliance from the period between their last accreditation on-site and the reaccreditation on-site. In the event a standard asks for compliance with an audit or the production of an annual report, the most current copy of the audit/annual report will suffice as proof in the accreditation file. Additionally, the agency must also have available for assessor review, proofs of compliance for each year between onsite assessments.
10. Accreditation is available to agencies that are members of WASPC (unless approved by the WASPC Executive Board) because the funding support of the program comes from the membership.

11. The duration of an agency's accreditation is four years.

Director of Professional Services Responsibilities

WASPC's Director of Professional Services is responsible for being the primary contact for agencies considering accreditation or for those pursuing re-accreditation. As the primary clearinghouse for all aspects of WASPC accreditation they:

1. Assign resources and advice to agencies initiating the accreditation process.
2. Coordinate the revision and update of standards that are forwarded to the Accreditation Committee, and ultimately the WASPC membership, for review and approval.
3. Recruit and assign Accreditation Mentors and ensure the list on the WASPC web site is current.
4. Schedule onsite assessment of agencies seeking accreditation and re-accreditation, assembles the assessment team, completes the final report and briefs the Accreditation Commission on team findings.
5. Coordinates training of Assessors and Accreditation Managers.

Commonly Asked Questions

Q: What is the cost?

A: WASPC strives to provide a valuable and affordable accreditation program. There are two costs associated with the program; an application fee of $100; and staff costs and expenses of conducting the on-site assessment, billable at $75/hour. The on-site is usually only one day.

Funding assistance is often available through WASPC, the Association of WA Cities, WA Cities Insurance Authority, and WA Counties Risk Pool.

Q: How labor intensive is the program?

A: The process may be challenging and take a commitment of time, effort and determination on the part of agency seeking accreditation. The level of difficulty ultimately depends on an agency's level of preparedness and commitment going into the accreditation process. Mentors and WASPC Staff are available to offer guidance to agencies seeking accreditation.

Q: Can I review the standards before committing to a contract?

A: Absolutely! Standards are part of this document and are available on the WASPC website for your review.

Q: Is there someone who has gone through the accreditation process I can work with?

A: Yes, WASPC requires participation of a mentor in the accreditation process. A roster of accreditation mentors is available on the WASPC website and the Director of Professional Services will assign each agency a mentor.

Q: What if I am too small to get accredited?

A: Standards are designed to be Law Enforcement “Best Practices” for all Washington state agencies – large or small.

Q: What if our department is a contract City Police under a Sheriff’s Office?

A: The contract police will be treated as a “stand-alone” agency and can apply for accreditation so long as it can show compliance with all the standards by itself and/or in conjunction with the home agency.

Preface to Accreditation Standards Manual

This Standards Manual is the cornerstone publication of the Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs law enforcement accreditation program. The standards are dynamic, that is they are constantly being reviewed, updated, added to, or deleted as necessary to ensure contemporary standards and practices.

It is the intent of the Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs that the standards in this manual speak to the “what” should be done and leaves the “how” to be done to the agencies as they prepare for accreditation. The manual consists of standards that are designed to provide flexibility to all law enforcement agencies, regardless of type, size or structure.

Other publications are under development that will outline the accreditation process, provide information on how to successfully negotiate the self-assessment phase, and outline the roles and responsibilities of accreditation assessors. Additional information on law enforcement accreditation in Washington State can be accessed on the web site for the Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs at www.waspc.org/accreditation.
